

Pakistan Muslim body seeks top civilian award for slain Sikh lawmaker

Bishop Mazhar Ishaq said it was a ray of hope for non-Muslims in Pakistan that people from different schools of thought and religions had united against the killing of Singh.

Updated – November 17, 2021 01:54 am IST Published – April 26, 2016 03:04 pm IST – Islamabad

PTI

In an unusual move, a prominent Muslim organisation whose members include clerics and Islamic scholars has sought Pakistan's one of the top civilian awards 'Tamgha-i-Imtiaz' for slain Sikh lawmaker Sardar Soran Singh.